

Creating a listing and review

If you would like to review a tobacco but see there is no existing listing, you will have to create a new one.

To do this, start by going to “Tobacco Search” and then click on “Add New Blend” at the bottom of the “Additional Search Options” section.

Next you will be prompted to enter information for the blend in question. Do this to the best of your ability, but it's okay if you don't know each detail, or if some don't apply (for instance, not all blends will belong to a “Series” or will have a specified “Blender”).

Not every blend category or tobacco type is so neat. I categorized Pipe Force VI as a Virginia/Perique, but it also has Kentucky and Stoved Katerini (an Oriental). Whatever feels intuitive should be fine.

Then there is flavoring. Choose any that apply. If the tobacco is not top flavored, simply don't check any box and skip to the next section.

Fill out the rest to the best of your knowledge and add a photo if you can, though it is not required. Things can be edited going forward.

You can also add historical notes, which can be any information that seems relevant, from the history or the blend to other things that might eliminate confusion or add context. For instance, in my example, I added the launch date for Pipe Force VI. At this moment, many have tried it after getting samples at various pipe shows, but it hasn't been officially released, so I noted the launch date and left the “Production” section as “—Unknown—” for the time being, as it is not yet “In Production”, nor is it “No Longer in Production.”

Then hit “Submit” and the listing will be made!

Next, you can add your review to the listing, or any existing one.

Please do not add links in your reviews or any profanity. Though by no means required, we recommend giving some comparisons to other blends in your review. How we experience the sensory and flavor of a blend is very subjective, and comparisons are a great way to offer something relative for context.

When finished, hit "Submit" and voila! Your review will be posted.
